Be part of Louisiana History

Focusing on the Future by Providing Policy Research and Archival Preservation

The policy center will address some of Louisiana's most pressing problems: criminal justice reform, poverty and economic opportunity, governmental ethics, and education, all issues Kathleen Blanco championed throughout her 25-year career in public service. The center's approach is solution-centered and focused on using research to improve the quality of life for the state's citizens. It also will make her gubernatorial papers available to researchers. The collection provides a unique vantage point from which to examine an extraordinary period in Louisiana's recent history.
